

La Razón presents its awards to Valencian characters and companies

Some of the winners in this third edition are Francis Montesinos, Quico Catalán, Jeanología and the head of Hematology of La Fe.

Figure 1. The president of the Generalitat, Ximo Puig, with all the winners in a family photo

Yesterday, La Razón Comunitat Valenciana celebrated the third edition of its awards in which it recognizes the trajectory and work of Valencian companies and personalities. The Medical Science Award went to the head of the Hematology Department at La Fe Hospital, Guillermo Sanz; the Professional Career Award went to the designer Francis Montesinos; the Award for Research Contribution to the Environment was collected by the president of Jeanology, Kike Silla, and the Sports Award went to the president of Levante UD, Quico Catalán. The Art and Culture Award went to Sento Yuste.

The president of the Generalitat, Ximo Puig, was in charge of delivering these awards, which were also received by Murprotec, in the category of Commitment and Defense of the Architectural Heritage; the Award for Commitment to the Environment went to Logifruit. For its part, the International College of Levante won the award for Best International Education System in the Valencian Community, while Refracta won the award for International Expansion. The Confucius Institute of the University of Valencia won the award for Cultural Publication and Castillo Castrillón Abogados received the award for the firm with the greatest progress in the Valencian Community.

Dibimed was distinguished with the R+D+i Award in assisted reproduction, and Procure Health Iberia with the award of Commitment to Innovation in Medical Solutions for Women. Titan Aerial Firefighting won the award for Best Work in Forest Fire Extinction, Rover Maritime won the award for Commitment to R&D in Maritime Construction and Lloder Group won the award for the best Solar Extraction and Pumping System.

The award for Best Nautical Sports Facility went to Marina Miramar; the award for Leading Transportation and Logistics Services Company went to Xtract Global Logistics. The Best Innovation in Rest Systems Award went to Grupo Delax, while the Leading Company in Children's Fashion Award went to Babidu.

The Best Data Protection and Information Security Consultant Award went to Forlopd Data Security and Privacy. The Cosmetic Product Quality Award went to Nirvel Cosmetics.

The Best Clinical Research in Oncology Award went to Médica Scientia Innovation Research (Medsir).

Inplast Manufacturing's work was also recognized with the Plastic Closures Leadership Award, the CHG Group's with the Best Construction and Real Estate Development Award. The Sustainability Award for Reusable Transport Packaging went to Ifco Systems Spain.

Fi Network was awarded with the prize for Best Mobile Phone and Fibre Operator of 2020.

The head of the Council assured that these awards give a well-deserved recognition to so many companies and institutions that make possible every day the progression and prosperity of the Community.

A special supplement with more information about the awards will be published on Sunday.
